

WEEKLY REPUBLICAN—1887.
DAILY PUBLIC LEDGER—1899.

MAYSVILLE, KY., MONDAY, JULY 22, 1907

ONE COPY—ONE CENT.

IF you have an item of news, please call up The Ledger, Telephone 33, and let us have it.

Mrs. William Kerwin of East Second street is ill with nervous prostration.

The nuptials of Mr. John Mackey and Miss Elizabeth Jobst will be solemnized tomorrow.

Quite a number of people in this community are sick with typhoid fever. People are warned to have drinking water filtered or boiled.

The McDonalds, Will and Paul, are reported as succeeding admirably in Chicago. The Maysville men usually hold their own wherever they locate.

Miss Florence Stoker of West Second street has accepted the position of Musical Directress of the moving picture theater recently opened in Flemingsburg.

There was an afternoon outdoor prayer-meeting held on the C. and O. grounds in the West End yesterday afternoon conducted by Rev. W. R. Ivey, Pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Mr. Ernest Daulton of Cincinnati arrived Saturday night en route to pay his father a visit and before starting yesterday morning for the home of the latter he received the sad intelligence of his death.

Three or four hundred from this side crossed over the river yesterday to witness a game of baseball between the Maysville Club and a picked nine from the Aberdeen and West Union Clubs. For five innings the game is reported to have been of a big leagued kind, when two of the Aberdeen boys in running after a ball collided and put one of them out of the game. From that on it was rather a one-sided affair. At the wind-up the score stood 8 to 3 in favor of Maysville.

DELMORE DAULTON.

Mr. Delmore Daulton, a former well known citizen, died suddenly yesterday morning of apoplexy at his home in Helena, after an illness of less than twenty minutes, aged 61 years.

He was born in this city March 30th, 1846, where for many years he was a valued employee of the James H. Hall Plow Works, and afterwards embarking in the grocery business, which he continued to conduct until recent years.

He was a member of the Christian Church and also of the Grand Army of the Republic.

He was twice married, his last wife surviving; besides he leaves two children, Mrs. George B. Caywood of Frankfort and Mr. Ernest B. Daulton of Cincinnati, also, one brother and two sisters, Mr. J. L. Daulton, Mrs. Mary J. Holliday and Mrs. Alice Ann Yazzell, all of this city.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence in Helena, the interment following at 5 o'clock in the Maysville Cemetery.

WILLIAM McNUTT.

Mr. William McNutt, a highly respected citizen, died Saturday night at 9:30 o'clock, of abscess of the bowels, at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. Rufus Robinson in Charleston Bottom, aged 74 years.

He was born near Moransburg and has resided in the county almost his entire life time.

He leaves one sister and two brothers—Mrs. Rufus Robinson of Charleston Bottom, Mr. Samuel McNutt of West Third street and Mr. Joseph McNutt of Moransburg.

The funeral will take place from the home of his sister this afternoon at 2 o'clock with services by Rev. W. W. Hall.

Interment in Charleston Bottom Cemetery.

MRS. MARTHA HEDRICK.

Mrs. Martha Hedrick died Saturday at her home at Helena.

She was 80 years of age and is survived by one daughter—Mary—and two sons—Messrs. John and Clarence Hedrick.

Captain James Dunn, the popular conductor on the L. and N., accompanied by ex-Chief of Police M. J. They will take in Detroit, Montreal, Buffalo and Niagara Falls and other notable points in their itinerary and will be absent two weeks.

Hon. A. M. J. Cochran is one of the most indefatigable workers to be found anywhere.

When not engaged in delving in problems of law, he may be found in fatigue dress laboring by the hour in his garden, quite an extensive one, in the rear of his residence.

He is a master gardener, and raises corn, beans, beets and all sorts of truck.

He perspires like a trojan.

He does his work well and has a splendid garden largely the result of his own handiwork.

This work keeps him in fine physical fettle and enables him to hold up in the performance of the exactions required in the great office he fills with credit to the public service and himself.

AT THE DEPOT TOO

Can't Something Be Done to Suppress This Nuisance?

Some of the engineers in charge of the freight trains that lay over for several hours on the track in Front street between Market and the Depot make much unnecessary noise by tooting and sounding ear-splitting blasts with the whistle much to the annoyance of sick and nervous people in the neighborhood.

Saturday night the disturbance was of more than an ordinary character.

About 11 o'clock one fellow let out a screech loud and long enough to awaken the dead.

It is a decided annoyance and nuisance.

Can't the powers that be abate the disturbing element if you please, sir?

STRING OF MEDALS

Athletic Honors Won By One Man From Maysville

Stanley Reed, son of Dr. John A. Reed of this city, is the possessor of seven gold medals awarded him as victor and champion in the field sports between University of Virginia students and those of other Universities East.

His first great victory was gained over the picked man in the Catholic University of Washington, D. C., who had challenged the U. of V. team. Mr. Reed was selected for the task and won in the presence of five or ten thousand cheering people.

He has never been defeated but once and has become famous for his sprinting ability. He is not only an athlete physically, but has maintained himself in a high rating as a student.

He believes in fresh air and his bed room is his father's upper back porch.

In this age of rush and struggle the observer will find men of strong physical powers coupled with intellectual prerequisites the leaders and controllers of men and movements. We predict great things from our champion. Richmond, Va., and other newspapers, in articles published about our Maysvillian, classed him as the talented Virginian. Stanley gave them to understand he was a Kentuckian.

A number of young ladies in Indiana have resolved not to marry any man who has not at least $4,000 of the coin of the realm. For which, it looks as if Indiana will not need to worry about her crop of old maids for awhile at least.

The other evening a West Second street matron imagined she heard an intruder in the house and picking up a trusty revolver and arming the serving maid with a butcher knife, they started on a man hunt with blood in their eyes. The matron, if such there was, had evidently taken alarm and skidded the ranch. And under the circumstances don't you think he was wise in doing so?

THE Ninth District has an opportunity to do personal honor to itself this fall by rolling up a big majority for the Republican ticket. With a U. S. HERMAN UNGER is a brick, if he is dead. He was a noted violinist and recently committed suicide in Boston. He ordered his body cremated and the ashes made into a brick and shipped to relatives in Pittsburgh. The cremation took place and the ashes were molded into a brick. Now the brick is lost and the relatives of UNGER are instituting a search for it.

A NOTED Kaintuckian stated that all whisky was good whisky, only some whisky was better than others. At Lexington it was proven that a saloonist sold six young boys whisky, and that that same night they burglarized several houses. They probably purchased the burglarious brand of liquor. Lexington has 'steen varieties of drink, from the gentlemanly Kentucky Colonel's "beady dew," to the car-bolic brew, of which, if only a few drops are placed on a rabbit's tongue, the said bunny will spit in a bull dog's face.

POLITICS is not always 'L. Down at Covington the Repubs and the Demmies have "got together" and settled a few things, among them being that JOHN J. CRAIG, Republican, will have no opposition for Mayor of Covington, and that Judge MATT L. HARBESON, Democrat, is to have no opposition for Circuit Judge. It has been wisely agreed that as far as possible politics is to be kept out of the Judiciary. But keeping the Judiciary out of politics is another proposition. However, the Kenton county plan should commend itself to other communities.

At the recent meeting of the Kentucky Bar Association at Bowling Green, a resolution was adopted condemning "expert testimony" in legal trials, and the resolution further declares that—

"The abuses of expert testimony have grown to such proportions as to become a public reproach and often to actually pervert justice."

We believe that every defendant should be acquitted at once on peremptory instructions, whenever any expert is introduced by the state for the purpose of forcing a conviction. And no so-called "expert witness" or bewhiskered "alienist" should be allowed to recite his paid-for testimony in a Court of law. "We the Jury" is the expert to weigh out the square deal.

IT WOULD FIDGET.

Judge. "The word 'fidget,' " explained the teacher, "means to move about. Now, children, I want one of you to step to the blackboard and write a sentence containing the word 'fidget.' " Forth stepped the little Wise boy, who wrote: "This store will fidget June first." "But who ever heard of a store fidgeting, Johnny?" asked the teacher. "I don't know; but the sign on a store down town says that it will move about June first."

TWO PATIENTS

RS. MALONEY had eight children. This is sufficient explanation of the fact that she remained calm in the face of the unexpected and that her nerves withstood the shock of childhood illnesses. When one has entertained everything from measles to typhoid in one's own family it takes more than a cough and the sniffles to arouse one's alarm.

Mrs. Maloney, as she prepared to leave for her day's work in the laundry at the home of the Benningtons on the boulevard, took time to bestow a thoughtful look on her youngest, aged three, whose voice was reduced to a growl, whose eyes ran constant tears and who was engaged in coughing at the command of the next oldest, who liked to hear it.

"Mary," said Mrs. Maloney to the young person, aged 12, who was left in charge of her younger brothers and sisters, "Denny's got a cold. You'd best put an onion poultice on him." So saying, the good woman departed.

Over at the Bennington's she found all in confusion. A housemaid summoned her into the presence of Mrs. Bennington herself, who was looking becomingly distracted in the perfection of pink house gowns.

"Oh, Mrs. Maloney!" she cried. "You can tell me what to do before the doctor gets here. You have children and know all about them! It's David! He—he's dreadfully sick!"

"What's the matter with the darling?" asked Mrs. Maloney as she turned to David Bennington, Jr. He was a pale, reserved little boy of four years. To-day he sat listlessly among his toys. To the casual eye he appeared to be in his normal condition. "He sneezed twice just now!" Mrs. Bennington half gasped. "And once he coughed. I shall never forget that cough! Why doesn't the doctor hurry?"

"I think," said Mrs. Maloney, after picking David up to get a better view of him, "I think he just has a cold in his head, ma'am. I wouldn't worry. He'll be all right. Maybe an onion poultice, now."

The doctor on his arrival repeated Mrs. Maloney's verdict in more complicated terms. Yes, if she liked, Mrs. Bennington might put David to bed. At least he would catch no more cold that way.

So, propped up by pillows with the sunlight beaming upon him, young David passed the day. His nurse sat near to amuse him. His worried mother canceled a luncheon engagement. He had two alcohol rubs during the afternoon.

Mrs. Maloney, as echoes of the proceedings above stairs trickled down to the laundry, spoke her mind to the housemaid. "Do she always act this way when the child winks?" she asked.

"Always—and more," the housemaid made answer. "Humph!" commented Mrs. Maloney. "Wait till she's had eight! I left Denny this mornin' with a cold that was newmomy and lung fever compared with this! She'll werrit the child to death!"

Then Mrs. Maloney went home to the eight and an evening's work getting their supper. She found that Denny had cast off the onion poultice as soon as his sister's back was turned and had spent the morning playing in a neighbor's small duck pond, with the temperature in the 40s. In the afternoon he had run away without his hood and coat and had been gone two hours. He was red-cheeked from exercise and a slight fever, hoarse as a crow and still damp from the duck pond. Mrs. Maloney, after kissing him, spanked him for good measure and put him to bed. Then she nonchalantly proceeded to cook the evening meal and settle the quarrels of the seven other young Maloneys.

When, a week later, she again went to the Bennington's, Denny's cold was a thing of the past. Mrs. Maloney also had forgotten little David Bennington's case of sniffles when she beamingly descended on the kitchen. "Haden't you heard?" the housemaid asked, wiping her eyes. "Little David—he died four days ago. They had five doctors, but he just went away. It was pneumonia."

Mrs. Maloney sat down heavily. "Poor woman!" she said at last. "I said she'd do it! She just worried him into it! Now, if she'd only tried an onion poultice! It cured my Denny."—Chicago Daily News.

WHEN DEBTORS WERE JAILED.

Evil Practice Existed Until Comparatively Recent Times.

In nearly every country until comparatively recent times, debtors have been subject to imprisonment. After the panic of 1825, 101,000 writs for debt were issued in England. In 1830, 7,000 persons were sent to London prisons for debt, and on January 1, 1840, 1,700 persons were held for debt in England and Wales, 1,000 in Ireland and less than 100 in Scotland. From time to time modifications in the laws governing the imprisonment of debtors have been made, so that fewer debtors are imprisoned for this crime each year. In 1829 there were 3,000 debtors in prison in Massachusetts, 10,000 in New York, 7,000 in Pennsylvania, 3,000 in Maryland, and a like proportion in other states. Many of these persons were jailed for debts of one dollar. The law providing for the imprisonment of men who could not pay their debts was shown to be impracticable by statistics taken from Philadelphia, where in 1828 there were 1,085 debtors imprisoned for debts amounting to $25,000. The expense of keeping these persons in confinement was $362,000, which was paid by the city, and the amount recovered by this method was $295. Imprisonment for debt was abolished by congress in the United States in 1833, though this measure was not fully enforced until 1839.—Montreal Herald.

Food Experts Differ About the Method of Eating.

Apropos of the reported disagreement between Chief Wiley of the Bureau of Chemistry of the Department of Agriculture, and Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University, as to whether meat ought or ought not to be chewed thoroughly, news now comes from Yale that Horace Fletcher, the advocate of chewing meat and everything else, has just submitted to the first of a series of endurance tests under Dr. Anderson, director of the Yale Gymnasium.

The test was made on Prof. Fisher's new apparatus for measuring endurance, and sets a record for that machine which is double the best record hitherto made.

Dr. Anderson states that Mr. Fletcher's endurance is really wonderful. Mr. Fletcher is in his fifty-ninth year.

All the other subjects tested are from fifteen to forty years younger.

Other tests, on chewers and non-chewers, are to follow.

Prof. Fisher emphasizes the fact that he has never stated any opinion as to the advisability of chewing meat in particular, and has taken pains to confine himself strictly to facts, merely recording the results of actual experiments.

He is not, as Dr. Wiley is reported to have said, a vegetarian; neither is Prof. Chittenden, Prof. Mendel or Dr. Anderson.

No experiments have been made at Yale in the hybrid system of thorough mastication of cereals combined with the bolting of meat.

It is up to the advocates of this system to show that those who practice it can surpass Mr. Fletcher in endurance.

Dr. Wiley has repudiated the newspaper accounts of his comments on Prof. Fisher's experiment.

He merely states that meat-eating animals bolt their food, and cereal-eating animals chew theirs thoroughly.

But if we humans, who live on a mixed diet, must chew our bread and bolt our ham, what are we to do with a ham sandwich?

PILES

"I have suffered with piles for thirty-six years. One year ago last April I began taking Cascarets for constipation. In the course of a week I noticed the piles began to disappear and at the end of six weeks they did not trouble me at all. Cascarets have done wonders for me. I am entirely cured and feel like a new man." George Kryder, Napoleon, O.

READ THIS AND PROFIT THEREBY!

This is a trying time of the year. Many discomforts arise from the heat. The best way to be comfortable is by bathing often, at least twice daily, and by using a liberal quantity of talcum powder. By bathing often one keeps the skin clean and the pores open, thereby allowing the entire body to "breathe freely," which means perfect health. The best soap to use for the bath and toilet is Picard's Complexion Soap, a non-injurious, healthful soap. Talcum powder keeps the skin cool, always heat rash, stops chafing and is an excellent toilet requisite. We have a number of kinds.

A BIG DEAL

C. and O. Transfers Railway Property

Holdings in Kentucky Are Turned Over to the Virginia Corporation

Documents were filed in the Mason County Clerk's office Saturday—one of 35 and another of 65 pages—by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, in which the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway of Kentucky transferred to the Chesapeake and Virginia all of its property—414.13 miles of track and appurtenances, being and lying in this state.

The 65-page document was a mortgage deed in which the Chesapeake and Ohio Company gave a mortgage to the Central Trust Company of New York and made it Trustee, to secure payment of $70,000,000 worth of bonds. Also to receive more bonds, not to exceed $25,000 a mile, for the purpose of double tracking its line.

It will require the services of two rapid penmen and a week's time to transcribe and record the voluminous document.

From this it may be expected that it will not be very long before that part of the road-bed bordering the Ohio will soon be double-tracked its entire length.
